CULVER CITY, July 10.—(U.P.)—The Culver City airport was cleared of all obstacles after the record breaking Angelino received its 30th refueling at 7:30 p. m. tonight at the end of its 20th hour in the air as low hanging fog threatened to force the plane to land.

The supply pilots said Loren Mendell, one of the pilots, appeared weary as he handled the hose for the refueling and that he dropped a sack of food that was lowered after the gasoline had been transferred.

CULVER CITY, July 10.—(U.P.)—The endurance plane Angelino piloted by Loren Mendell and "Pete" Rehart passed its 20th hour in the air at 3:30 p. m. today.

At that time the fliers were circling the airport without any indication they would land for many hours.

The Californians broke the endurance record of Byron Newcomb and Roy Mitchell, Cleveland pilots, Tuesday afternoon at

OUT OF WORK TAKES LIFE

Funeral services are pending at a San Francisco undertaking chapel for Edward Winkler, 22, 940 Thirteenth street, Richmond, who committed suicide yesterday morning. An inquest into the death will be held by coroner Aubrey Wilson.

Winkler had been sick for some time and had been unemployed for two years. Believed to have been despondent because of this, he locked himself in a laundry room at his home yesterday morning, pulled a quilt over his head, placed a gas hose in his mouth, and turned on the gas.

Mrs. Emma Winkler, his wife, found the laundry door locked and noticed an odor of escaping gas. She summoned neighbors and the Sae summoned neighbors and the door, which she broke down the door. The inhalator crew of the Richmond fire department worked over Winkler for more than two hours in an effort to revive him. Mrs. Winkler told police that she returned from work at the certain-teed plant here at 10:30

SMALL MAIN TO WHARF LOOMS

Laying of a smaller main to the inner harbor than was originally planned, with a subsequent increase in insurance costs, may be necessary because the East Bay Municipal Utility District insists that the city of Richmond pay the expense of installing the pipe.

It was revealed yesterday in a meeting of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

The plan originally called for a 12-inch main to the inner harbor and the city made its arrangements for the installation of an elaborate sprinkler system that would have brought about low insurance rate.

According to P. M. Sanford, president of the Chamber of Commerce which recently called upon the district directors to have applied the local police department has been wamped, according to state rulings.

Because of the time taken to give the tests and the large number of motorists that have applied, the local police department has been wamped, according to state rulings.

According to McVittie, the cost of installing such a main is too great for the city of Richmond to assume out of the tax rate which will mean that a smaller main will have to be used, which it was said would cause payment of higher rates on insurance for the properties at the inner harbor and the goods to be stored at the Parr Richmond terminal.

Further efforts will be made to induce the district directors to modify their decision, it was said.

Runaway Girl Seriously Ill

ANTIOCH, July 10.—Nellie Gatter, 16 year old Antioch girl who was returned home recently after she had run away from her home, was removed to the Children's hospital in San Francisco, seriously ill.

Physicians attribute her illness to a quantity of Iye she took when she attempted to commit suicide while being held in Missouri by the sheriff.

After the girl's return she collapsed at the detention home in Martinez and where she was held before being given into the custody of her parents.

Pittsburg Asks Street Permit

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(U.P.)—The city of Pittsburg applied to the railroad commission here today for permission to construct Montezuma avenue across the tracks of the Sacramento Northern railway.

SQUIER IN SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Squier of 1420 Pennsylvania avenue, left yesterday for a motor trip to Los Angeles.

Hedge Burns Near Cottage Hospital

Whitelandburn drivers and attendants stood ready to transfer about a dozen patients in the Cottage hospital, Ninth street and Novin avenue, yesterday. Richmond firemen battled a stubborn fire which had started in a hedge next to the hospital and traveled to a laundry box adjacent to the hospital.

Only the timely arrival of the fire department and fast work in setting the flames under control prevented what might have been a serious blaze. While hoses were played on the flames, nurses and attendants in the hospital were kept busy assuring the patients that there was no danger.

According to Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, damage from the fire was negligible. The only loss suffered being that of the laundry stored in the box outside the building.

It is believed that some careless smoker tossed a lighted match or burning cigar into the dried grass and pine needles beneath the hedge. The hedge is most immediately beneath a mass of flames, and offered stubborn resistance to fire fighters.

Police Set Hours For Driver Tests

Richmond motorists are not going to be caught napping when the time for re-registration of auto drivers expires. More than 100 appeared at the Richmond police station yesterday to take the new tests and at a late hour yesterday a line at least a block long was waiting to see if they were "mentally capable of driving a motor vehicle," under the new state rulings.

Because of the time taken to give the tests and the large number of motorists that have applied, the local police department has been wamped, according to state rulings.

According to McVittie, the cost of installing such a main is too great for the city of Richmond to assume out of the tax rate which will mean that a smaller main will have to be used, which it was said would cause payment of higher rates on insurance for the properties at the inner harbor and the goods to be stored at the Parr Richmond terminal.

NEW CLUES LINK FOUR TO HOLDUP

Search for the machine gun bandits who held up and robbed a Southern Pacific train near Pittsburg last month and escaped with $16,000 loot, shifted to San Jose yesterday when postal authorities hurried to the Santa Clara county seat to aid Sheriff George Lyle in the search.

Detectives believe that two of the three men caught in Santa Clara county are the train bandits.

The San Jose suspects are known as Joe Miller, William H. Fleagle, alias Golden and Ralph, and "John Doe" De Moss, alias D. Morris. They are charged with robbery in a complaint signed by E. M. Jenkins of San Jose.

Jenkins told police that he was negotiating with De Moss for the purchase of a pool room in Watsonville. He declared De Moss persuaded him to draw $1500 from the bank and go with him in his car toward Watsonville. While enroute the car developed motor trouble and while Moss worked on the car, Fleagle and Miller appeared and held them up. Jenkins said.

According to police records, the two had been arrested in Stockton on March 8 with a number of pistols and disguises in their possession.

With them was a woman who said her name was Betty Wright. The girl is said to have resembled the woman consort of the Pittsburg robbers.

The two were freed in Stockton for lack of evidence after a man, whom Stockton police declare was De Moss, appeared and claimed the guns.

In the party of officials that went to San Jose yesterday were Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison of Martinez, James Prendeville, special agent for the Southern Pacific and C. M. Christiansen, chief postal inspector.

SCHOOLS AIDS RETURN HOME

Robert J. White, assistant county superintendent of schools, returned to Martinez yesterday from Atlanta, where he attended the convention of the National Education association.

Miss Nora Ashfield, assistant superintendent of city schools, and Miss Dorothy Hann represented the Richmond schools at the meet. Miss Ashfield is now attending the Business and Professional Women's convention and Miss Hann is visiting friends in the east. They will return here later.

Three Building Permits Issued

Three building permits were issued yesterday at the office of A. J. Hurley, city building inspector, construction amounting to $1350.

P. A. Hosking will raise a house on Fifth street between Bissell and Chandler avenues, to place a garage beneath it. The work, to cost $1000, will be done by F. C. Hosking, contractor.

J. A. Nelson will erect a store room on Stege avenue between South and Cutting boulevard. The work will cost $200.

Leo Persico obtained a permit to tear up a wooden floor in a business house on Macdonald avenue between Fifteenth and Sixteenth street. The floor will be replaced by one of concrete. Tandy and Thels are doing the work, which will cost $150.

Fines Total $250 In Traffic Court

Fines totalling $250 were collected in the court of Police Judge J. P. Plank of El Cerrito last night when a number of motorists appeared on charges of violating state and municipal traffic laws.

The largest fines of the night were assessed against S. Stapleton, charged with reckless driving and C. D. Gurin, arrested on the same charge. The two were fined $50 each.

Others fined included George Hurd, no muffler, $5; Hal Har-

GAYLE HEBBARD

AFTER THE HONEYMOON

JUNE brides and bridegrooms are returning from the honeymoon, these days, and adjusting themselves to real married life. Women's magazines and women's pages in the newspapers are deluging the bride, especially, with advice as to what she must do to make her husband happy and her home a success. It seems to us that, more important than any of the things she must do, is one thing she MUST NOT! If her marriage is to be a rich, happy, useful relationship, she MUST NOT try to make her husband over in her own image.

She almost certainly has discovered, by this time, certain things that are wrong with him. For instance, he never does to-day any disagreeable thing that he can put off till to-morrow—and she, determined little natterer, considers procrastination a vice. It is not a crime. Of course, sometimes the unpleasant thing he puts off doesn't have to be done at all—but this liberality of fate merely irritates her the more.

Then he has an engagingly good-humored habit of befriending people tell him, and she just knows that, as a consequence, he is imposed upon by his friends, and this, in her business dealings, (this happy trustfulness makes him more popular than she and gives him less about what to worry—but no matter.)

Also, he smokes more than she thinks he should; and she eats things that are likely to disagree with him, if he happens to like them. It seems so silly to her to risk one's health for petty indulgences! In short, however much in love with her mate, she cherishes the yearning of Ophelia to "renew" (think nearer to our heart's desire).

AND she must not! If she tries and fails, they'll be wrecked. If she tries and succeeds, he'll be a wreck—not a lover, not a young man, out to conquer the world—but just another wife-broken husband.

Any bride who considers developing into a matrimonial steamroller is referred, for a horrible example of this feminine machine, to Edith Greene, in Lorna Bee's new novel, "Six Mrs. Greenes."

"When Edith married," Miss Bee explains with ironic blandness, "she was equipped with a complete knowledge of the usual faults of the young married man, the dangerous tendencies which must be nipped in the bud by his loving and protective wife, and the special points which she must remember to keep always in mind when building up out of the faulty material to build a perfect specimen of the genus husband."

She realized beforehand that even on the honeymoon a young wife could not afford to be contented with any lapse from these high standards which it was her duty to impose upon the man whom she had honored with her hand; one must begin as one meant to go on.

In this Spartan mood Edith Beckett accepted herself to marry Rodney Greene, and it is fair to say that never once did she fall into the pitiful weakness of condoning in silence any breach on Rodney's part of manners, morals, or good behavior.

What young woman with a germ of intelligence and decent feeling can read of Edith Greene's ironing-out of her husband's individuality without a solemn resolve never to go and do likewise? We ourselves can't remember when we've detected a woman in a book!

THAT a husband's performance, like a radio's, should be kept free from interference is also demonstrated in the best short story we've read this summer—"Raffles," by Lutz Sabastian, who writes so intelligently about motion pictures for Evening World readers. Miss Sabastian's heroine, Cynthia, is a devoted, conscientious young wife, who nevertheless manages to do Kirby, her husband, out of a fortune because she won't trust him to run his own affairs in his own way. Incidentally, this story is beautifully impartial, for it shows Kirby trying to transform his domestic wife into the peppy he himself is, until, at the end, the two wake up and realize that each must leave the other "as is."

It is pure impudence, in our opinion, for one partner to a marriage to try to remodel the other. Personal liberty, like charity, should begin at home.

CONVERSATION

You did not know I wanted you.
You were not wise enough to guess.
The tattered shreds of talk, the few
Words, were funny tags to dress
The thought that burned, aside, alone.

You did not know I wanted you.
I was not strong enough to stress
The slender, fragile lines I drew Beneath the words of pain. Unless
You knew, but gave up my voice.

World's Window

By Pierre Van Paassen
PARIS, June.

In Abraham's City
The City of Hebron, where Abraham, the Patriarch, and several members of his family are buried, suffers heavily under the heel of the unbeliever. In this respect the town is no better off than the rest of Palestine. The latest visit of a health inspector of the health service from Jerusalem, to keep their meat inside the shop, away from the sight and fingers of prospective buyers and the millions of flies. And if that isn't bad enough, bakers may no longer spread out their flat and crackling loaves in the dust of the roadway. The health inspector, who is a Jewish doctor, is out to figure out how the Arabs consider him an evil mediator and worse. Hadn't their fathers and fathers' fathers spread out meat in the same way as they did it, and weren't they valiant men, great warriors before Allah? Ah, that Yehudi doctor! But they would fix him. "Look here," said the oldest Arab of the community, a venerable patriarch himself, to the doctor, "you are a son of Abraham, like our lives. Now Abraham, peace on him, has appeared to me in a vision and ordered me to tell you that you must cease tormenting his faithful children in Hebron." "That's curious," replied the doctor. "Abraham, may his name be blessed, has appeared to me also. When did he appear to you?" "Even two weeks ago," replied the Arab, "when you first came here." "That explains things," said the doctor. "He only visited me last night, and he said: 'Tell my children in Hebron, Moslem and faithful believers that they are, that I am ashamed of them for keeping the city in such a dirty state. Make a law at once to stop them beating their carpets near the market place, and order them to stop that they may have their eyes washed by the Yehudim nurses, and in so doing will not be stricken with blindness.' That's what Abraham, peace on his memory, told me, Allah is my witness! Unless you hear from him, his last order must stand!"

A Gloomy Prospect

England was to disappear into the waves on April 26 at 11 o'clock in the evening. This was the prophecy of Joseph Weissenberg, the new prophet who is attracting large crowds in Berlin with a peculiar religious cult of his own invention. Few Englishmen are less likely to put up with a prophet than the average Briton. But Weissenberg is not put out by the failure of his prophecy to materialize. He has just announced the outbreak of a new world war for the fall of 1929. It will be a short war, he says, "short and joyous," we imagine, as the Crown Prince foresaw the last. There will be few dead and wounded in that new war on the German side, but mountains of corpses on the enemy side. The war will be followed by an outbreak of plague in many countries, so that whoever has been spared in armed hostilities will succumb under this horrible malediction. Of course, if Germans will be wiped out by the plague, a marvelous serum to be discovered in the meantime will render the Teutonic race as good as immune. It's a fine prospect, but nobody needs to lose any sleep about it. England didn't sink away into the sea, and that new war can wait a while as well. The curious part about Weissenberg is not the crazy things he says, but that there are people who believe his nonsense is astonishing. Dr. Von Weise writes in the Voer Gazette that tens of thousands flock to hear the prophet of gloom.

Mod-est Pictures in the Modern Decorative Scheme

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

A recent luncheon attended by a group of decorators the question as to what pictures may be judiciously used in a modern interior came up for what proved to be a very lively discussion.

"I suppose," some one said to me smilingly, "where your client insists on keeping old pictures you advise turning their faces to the wall and covering the backs with modern fabrics."

I replied that this depended entirely upon the pictures in question. "Old" and "modern" are, after all, relative terms. The ancients—as some one says—never realized that they were ancients, nor, by the same token, do we moderns realize that we too will some day be known as ancients.

It seems to me that a "modern" picture can best be described as one in keeping with the spirit of the age in question, regardless of the time of its execution. The sprightly portraits by Botticelli and Fra Ugo Lippi, for example, are certainly more appropriate in modern interiors than gloomy likenesses of Puritan patriarchs or saccharine eighteenth-century flappers! And even the Italian primitives with their vivid color are better suited to modern schemes than many a muddy Victorian landscape.

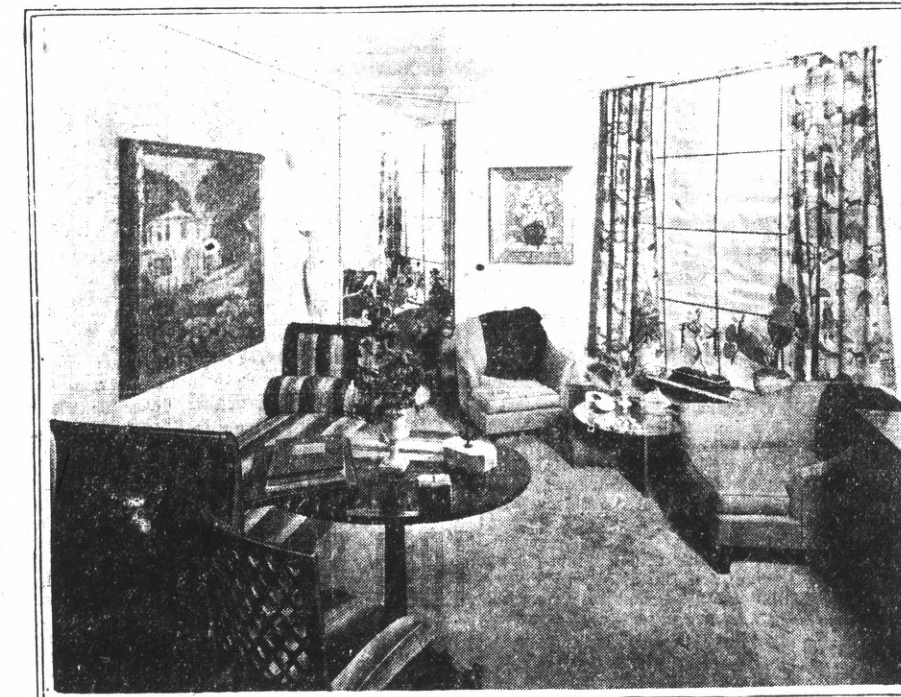

Nor am I convinced that certain modernist paintings of the Greenwich Village school, with their abominable drawing and abortive colors, are truly representative of the present age. But am getting a trifle off the subject. It is not my purpose to criticize the modern and exalt the old masters—but rather to point out how appropriately certain of the old and modern modern works may fit into twentieth-century rooms.

Fortunately we are outgrowing the idea that plain, dull walls muddled over with glaze in the corners and panels are either practical or interesting. More and more we are covering our walls with colorful, exquisitely designed papers, or giving them clear-cut colors and depending on pictures and sculpture for their decorative value as well as for their value as works of art. And here let me emphasize an important point: Let us put the pictures of art when we can afford them and when they fit into our decorative scheme. But do let us remember that many of our charming old paintings and pictures can find a setting in the simplest home without necessarily being a "great" painting. And for better sometimes will the lesser picture fit in its surroundings if properly chosen for color, for an amusing note, or for its dignified elegance than would a "great" painting which is too large in scale for the room, too blatant in color or too dreary in sentiment.

It is always good decorative judgment to seek the type of picture best suited in color, subject, size and treatment to the room wherein it is to be hung. Men are often partial to etchings of animal life or to sporting prints. Very well and good! Let us put these pictures in the man's sanctum, and see that the background is such as to bring them to their best advantage as well as to make them intrinsic decorative features in the room. If one wishes a dignified, old-time dining room of fine antique pieces, put in the room some interesting portraits or some colorful still life of fruit or flowers—trite as the latter have become. We may do this provided we choose good examples to fit the wall spaces and to enhance the coloring which we are trying to bring out in forming a harmonious whole.

Or suppose we are furnishing some gay little boudoir for a young girl, or a city building—an apartment where we intend to relax and be diverted. We may sound the decorative note for the living room through some amusing, brightly-colored picture of our time and mood, and throughout the house plan and pictures to give us a sense of pleasure in the fitness of their settings. As for pictures bought either for investment or for the love of the thing itself—let us hang them in some room where, when the mood strikes us, we can contemplate them thoughtfully, just as we wear our jewels on some occasions and not on others.

There is no disguising the fact that the freshness, cheerfulness and smartness of young artists a chance to show that they have an essential place in the life of the twentieth century.

boat. The room would not have seemed finished without these three pictures.

Many of our modern pictures can so portray a mood that modern rooms in the larger cities. But it is not necessary to live in one of these new buildings in order to enjoy a modern atmosphere. The old house or apartment can be modernized, and at the same time a surprising amount of the old furniture can be retained. Modern fabric coverings and repainting in fresh colors will give added brightness to furniture. Indeed, the practice of using old pieces having really good lines in combination with the new draperies has solved many a troublesome problem in connection with the new idea of modern pictures and objects of art of great value in "tying a room together." I recall one particular room where the three pictures actually made the room. A large painting which filled an ample space over a divan had as the center of interest a white octagonal house with a red roof. The room itself was an octagonal one, and some of the accessories were white porcelains. Another picture, showing a copper bowl filled with white dogwood, again picked up the white note. The third painting, that of a white boat on a blue sea, repeated the white and also echoed the tone of the floor, which in this room was blue. And the small note of red on the moldings of the room found a repeat in the little red flag on the

Even the purely kaleidoscopic futurist paintings have a place. One need not necessarily know what the artist is trying to express; indeed, such a picture often makes a suitable subject for interesting speculation as to what, if anything, the artist is trying to prove. But irrespective of this, the color value of many of these canvases can be exhilarating enough to make a room vibrant.

Now, of all time, when so much is being done in the world and there is so much to enjoy, is the modern picture practically a necessity. And so I say, let us dispel the powers of darkness and dinginess. Let's not become "ancients" before our time, but continue to strike the note of modernity; see that the tone of our art reflects the tone of our life and—truly a worthy undertaking—give our modern

The Garnishing of Foods

NOW is the time when foods have to be dressed up a bit to appeal to the jaded appetites of the overfatigued family members.

This does not mean to scatter a few sprigs of parsley on the meat, the salad and the fish. Even requires its individual garnish, and no two dishes at the same meal should be garnished alike. Most housewives use a garnish that may be eaten as part of the food it adorns.

Color is now largely produced in the garnish, especially on light colored foods, but it is usually combined with a little green, such as cream, celery, peppers or parsley. Chicory makes the most attractive garnish in its shaded green tones.

Fruit is a favored garnish. For instance, grapes, tiny clusters of them, make an effective garnish for a fish. Lemon slices and chicory or, if you prefer it, parsley are used with the grapes. Pineapple has become a popular garnish for lamb and other meats, and grapes or grapefruit are often used. Bits of fruit jellies also serve as a garnish.

The possibilities of olive, pimiento and nuts as garnishes are well known to most housekeepers. Both red and green peppers, also potatoes, are used, and when a yellow garnish is desired oranges or grated carrots are used. Be careful not to overdo the garnishing. It should be simple but artistic. Do not garnish every dish served at the same meal, and use edible garnishings.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW
Bandana handkerchief for the beach. This beautiful article of sports wear is just the thing for summer at the beach. Hand-painted in seventeen different colors and washable—once. Tie it in a knot just under your skull and it keeps your coiffure snugly in. Can also be used for blowing your nose in an emergency. Yes, we have plenty of bandanas. From $1.75 to $12.50.

Chiffon stockings in the smartest fashion tints. So carefully shaded that it isn't as if the sun had been on your legs for a week. The advantage of a sheer chiffon stocking over bare legs is that the smallest splinter in a chair, a rough fingernail or even a sharp look will cause a thirty-inch slit. Think what would happen to your bare legs if you didn't have chiffon stockings to protect them. Price, $3 a pair to too much. These chiffon stockings are guaranteed to be first quality only, not seconds. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Overnight-bag. The overnight bag is just the thing in which to pack your clothes for a two weeks' vacation. Can also be used as a vanity or a purse. The first overnight case was used by September Morn. This is the original design. In three convenient sizes—small, smaller and practically invisible.

Rickish linen shorts for flappers. Just the thing for tennis, hiking or attracting attention. We sell them in shorts on another counter as men's underwear. These flapper shorts have a wide, bell-bottom trouser effect—in fact, they look like sailor's pants designed for Singer's midgits. Just the thing for flappers' two weeks' vacation or a three months' vacation where the police are strict.

Little sweater shirts for ladies. These are very swaggy this season. They really look like a stevedore's undershirt, but all the tough girls are wearing them, so that makes them simply swell. If you wore them with a pair of overalls, folks would think you were helping papa to dig a ditch, but with a skirt they're exceptionally smart. Price, $3 up to outrageous.

Knitted sweaters. Mighty smart for vacation wear. These come in the celebrated white and eggshell tints. The eggshell color enables you to drop an omelette off your fork without tending the sweater to the cleaner. The popular white shade is very serviceable for cleaning sport shoes in your lap without leaving a spot.

The sun-back bathing suit. No beach wardrobe is complete without sun-back bathing tops for midday. Or at least for YOUR lady. The biggest idea on the style market this season. Great oaks from little acorns grow, and this is an outgrowth of Eve's oak leaf. The back is missing—like a bookkeeper's stool. Just the thing for showing off a perfectly matched spine.

The smart sun-back bathing suit enables you to get 90 per cent sun-burned, appear on the beach in one of these suits and your ears will start to burn at once. Never before in the history of bathing suits have shoulder straps been so important. The sun's rays have never had so much territory to cover as this year. When ordering, state "what's what" you want to be tanned down to your fifth, sixth or seventh rib.

The refrigerator and not the housewife works overtime these summer days. Foods cooked in the pleasant, burning hours; breakfast cereals, desserts, vegetables and meat, keep perfectly in the chill caverns of the modern ice box.

Fresh fruits, melons, salad vegetables nicely washed, milk, butter, cream, salad dressing are stored against the last-minute demand for a bit of sustenance. Beverages also cool for emergency use.

Actual meal-getting becomes an assembling of an assembly of the prepared and cooked foods and reheating those to be served hot. Advance planning must precede the purchase and preparation of balanced nutritious summer meals.

When luncheon, or supper, or picnic appetites demand some home-cooked meat, sliced very thin, the refrigerator sometimes contains boiled ham or tongue, veal or beef loaf, or spiced corn beef, or canned whole chicken.

Easy to prepare and far easier to serve is

SPICED BEEF TONGUE
One medium sized tongue
Warm water to cover
FRESHENING TIME: 4 hours
Two onions, quartered
One carrot, sliced
Handful of celery tops
One large bayleaf
Peeled and sliced red pepper pod
Several parsley sprigs
Four cloves
Two allspice
One cup cider vinegar (optional)
Warm water to cover
Cook below boiling point three hours.

Smoked tongues weigh from three to six pounds as a rule. A large or four pound tongue is a good buy, even for the small family. Tongue keeps well and may be utilized in a variety of ways: thinly sliced with salad, in sandwiches, in salads, in appetizers, in mousses and gelatines for company meals.

The culinary kit should include a large pan, vegetable brush, towel, sharp knife, large saucepan with cover, or steamer, measuring cup, clock.

Place the tongue in a pan and cover with lukewarm water; scrub with the brush; drain off the water and again cover with lukewarm water. Cover with a towel and let stand four hours to freshen.

Some cooks begrudge the freshening time. They bring the washed tongue to the boiling point, boil for five minutes and drain. The tongue is then ready for boiling.

The freshened tongue is placed in the saucepan with the quartered onions, sliced carrots, minced celery tops, bay leaf, pepper pod, parsley sprigs, cloves and allspice. One cup strong cider vinegar is poured over. The saucepan is covered and set over the heat. When the liquid boils, the heat is reduced so that it simmers for three hours, or until tender.

Let the tongue cool in its liquid; then peel off the skin and remove the roots and any coarse parts. Chilling in the refrigerator improves the flavor, although hot spiced tongue is liked by many.

Prune conserve or sweet pickle relish may be served with the sliced tongue. Hot creamed potatoes, glazed new turnips and rolls complete the main dining dish.

Trio Starts Long Flight To New York

The Swedish fliers hoped to complete their 926 mile flight to Greenland sometime tonight. It was planned to land on the east side of Greenland, if necessary, probably at Ammassalik.

The chief of the Ammassalik colony was asked to prepare for the flight and, if it became dark before the aviators arrived, great bonfires were to be built on the hills to guide them. Captain Ahlberg and his companions will enjoy many hours of daylight for flying at this season of the year.

Weather reports were satisfactory for the departure.

The three men started their flight from Stockholm, flying to Bergen, Norway, and then starting out over the Arctic waters for Reykjavik. They were forced down on the southern coast of Iceland, however, and were towed for a considerable distance along the coast by vessels which went to their assistance.

After meeting supply ships, and taking on fuel the Swedes flew here. The cooling system had been damaged but was repaired and the fliers left for Greenland, only to be forced back.

Keep Eye On Oil During Summer Time

Heat is the enemy of efficient lubrication, say motor experts. That is why they advise you to watch your oil even more carefully in summer than you do in the winter. At this season the normal heat of the engine is increased by the higher temperature of the atmosphere. Also, summer is the time for long vacation trips that put a heavy strain on your engine.

You'll save yourself trouble if you choose an oil for your motor that resists heat and dirt forms no hard cation even when burned.

There are excellent reasons why summer motorists get such service from Shell motor oil. Say chemists of the Shell laboratories. "Unlike even the most expensive oil, Shell motor oil forms no hard carbon at all. Refined without excessive heat, Shell motor oil is better prepared than other oils to stand summer usage. When it is burned, the carbon that is left is not hard and gritty but merely a soft soot which blows away harmlessly through the exhaust. This is very important in the high compression motors of today."

Furthermore, this soft carbon is only one-third to one-fifth as much in quantity as the carbon formed by even the most expensive oils. For summer as well as winter use, Shell motor oil makes today's motors work better.

MARY PICKFORD IN MOODS OF FASHION

Mary Pickford, who is appearing in her first all-talking picture "Coquette" at the Fox-California theater believes that the emotions of a dramatic scene can be centered by the clothing worn by the players. In "Coquette" she wears five costumes, each one expressive of the underlying feeling of the scenes in which it appears. The frock she wears in the opening episode is an arch-tulle dancing dress. The gay girliness of it expresses the buoyancy of the little flirt, who tells each of her southern beaux that he is "adorable," and then dances on to the next conquest.

Miss Pickford's second evening gown, worn in the dramatic scenes of the country club, where she meets her lover, Michael Jeffery, and goes with him to his cabin in the hills, is a subtle combination of modesty and sophistication. The short pink bodice of this frock is griddled with varicolored ribbon, and the short skirt is masked by tiers of silver-colored net ruffles. The revealing maturity of its close fitting lines is half masked by its youthful heaviness. In this expressive gown Miss Pickford, as Norma Desmond, steps from carefree staidness into tragic womanhood.

The apple green, printed silk morning dress, which she wears in the later dramatic scenes spotlighting in the youth of its lines, the gaiety of its coloring, and the chic of its design enhance the comedy into which Norma wears it.

And for the heartbreak of the episode following the death of Michael, Miss Pickford dons a beige tailored dress, severe in its simplicity. A delicate psychology of clothes was expressed in the country club outfit worn by the desolate little coquette, constrained to pretend a guilty love to save the life of her father, Norma dares not wear mourning for her dead sweetheart. For this sequence Miss Pickford chose a sweet ensemble suit of warm blue with cuffs and collar gray fox fur, and a girlishly simple gray felt hat. The lightness of the costume's coloring serves to accentuate the pathetic efforts of Norma to conceal her grief.

Miss Pickford brought four of her five "Coquette" gowns with her from Paris. Also on this bill is a talking comedy "The Plumbers Are Coming" and Fox News.

TEACHERS OF STATE MAY SMOKE

SACRAMENTO, July 10.—(U.P.)—If the modern California school teacher wants to inhale her favorite cigarette after a hard day in the classroom, it's perfectly all right, says Vierling Kersey, state director of education.

But she must do it within the confines of her own home, away from any influence it might have on the schoolchildren, added Kersey.

Laying down the dictum that once a teacher, man or woman, is outside any influence they might cast on their pupils, their actions regarding the use of tobacco need only be governed by their wishes. Kersey has started educational circles in California.

Much Interest.
With many school district warnings that they will dismiss woman teachers who smoke, Kersey's statement has aroused considerable interest throughout the state.

"No question but what there is more smoking among women, both in professional and social life than there was 10 years ago," said Kersey. "Many institutions training teachers are now equipping women's smoking rooms."

"I believe that what one does in their strictly private life in respect to smoking makes no difference. But if their private conduct should promote a laxity in the personal habits of their pupils, I would say that smoking by school teachers is wrong."

But One Stand.
"There is but one stand that teachers can possibly take on the use of tobacco by youth, and that is emphatically against the habit. But if the women teachers of the state believe they can smoke in their private life and yet not influence their charges in the classroom, I wouldn't deny the right to any teacher. If using tobacco in her private life makes her careless then it is time she stopped."

Efforts to stop women teachers from using tobacco by signing an affidavit that they would refrain from the practice has not been successful, Kersey declared. He cited the case of Los Angeles where both men and women instructors are required to sign the pledge. Such attempts usually have resulted in a wide difference of opinion among the citizens and is probably ineffectual in stopping the habit, Kersey concluded.

Famous 'Simba' Film Coming To Fox-California

"Simba" the nation's course which records the experiences of the famous Simba, during the four years in the jungles of Africa will have its premiere at the Fox-California theater tonight. It is reported to be the biggest game hunting film ever made and to judge from the samples of scenes from the picture, this claim is justified.

The film gives you intimate glimpses of more wild animals in native haunts than any preceding effort. Many of the shots which take only a few minutes to show on the screen, were taken hours and even days of waiting on the part of the Johnsons. Also on this program is Chic Sale the famous star of vaudeville in an all talking comedy entitled "Marching On" and Fox Talking News.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, these are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, in works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Richmond Can Boast Of Leadership In Many Ways

And truly what a place it is! Anyone who has traveled through the state and beyond its borders, no matter how far and in what direction, is bound to come back with the impression that no spot on earth has as many advantages as RICHMOND.

FIRST there is climate — gentle, agreeable, which makes living here a pleasure and which makes the process of making a living here enjoyable. We have schools here equal to the best—everything that goes to make a REAL CITY is here and ours.

Then we have a type of citizen that is progressive—regular go-getters—men and women who do things. Richmond has an intelligent type of citizen. They are familiar with their country—they know who's who and they keep abreast of the times by informing themselves about National Affairs. In a word, they are progressive, kind, charitable, hospitable, and alert.

No city could help forging ahead with that sort of people in it. With this gift in the hearts and minds of all citizens, Progress is the natural result of the ambition and the initiative of our people. Frankly, we have in RICHMOND people with Ambition—Faith—and Vision.

Our Spirit of Leadership here has cast aside old prejudices, the old animosities, the old feeling of smugness and self satisfaction that defeats effort, robs communities of their rightful growth, and holds in fetters POTENTIAL EMPIRES.

THERE IS MORE REAL SPIRIT OF PROGRESS HERE IN A SQUARE FOOT THAN IN AN ACRE IN MOST PLACES.

By making four runs in the first inning the San Francisco Seals were able to coast the rest of the win to beat Oakland 9 to 3.

DON MOE FAVORED TO WIN WESTERN AMATEUR GOLF

MISSION HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 10.—(U.P.)—Don Moe, good looking, stock built, 20-year old collegiate player from the University of Oregon, who won medalistic honors in the Western Amateur Golf tournament yesterday continued to monopolize the spot light today and was the outstanding favorite to win the championship as the tourney reached the quarter final round.

Moe won his two matches today with almost ridiculous ease, taking W. S. Critchlow, Ardmore, Oklahoma, into camp by a 6 and 5 score in the first round and defeating Clarence Hubby, Dallas, Tex., millionaire, in the afternoon round four and three. In the Critchlow match Moe was two under par for 13 holes and against Hubby went one over par for fifteen holes. At the conclusion of today's matches the Portland striping had better par by one stroke in the 64 holes he has played during the present tourney.

Keefe Carter, Jr., of Oklahoma City, Okla., who had been regarded as Moe's most dangerous rival for the championship, was eliminated in the major upset of the day, losing to Art Sweet, Chicago sports writer, four and two. Carter had defeated Chester Jones of Lawrence, Kas., in the first round, being even par for the 15 holes of the match, and had been regarded as an almost certain victory over Sweet, who had considerable difficulty putting out J. A. Kenney, Tulsa, Okla., 2 up.

Sweet, a former western junior champion, gained an early advantage over Carter and never relinquished the lead. A. L. Novotny, of Chicago, runner-up to Frank Dodge in the 1928 tourney and a former big ten champion, earned recognition as a dangerous contender by defeating John Van Nortwick, Chicago, and G. F. Johnstone, Tulsa, Okla. Novotny went four over par in 14 holes against Van Nortwick but was only two over in fifteen holes against Johnstone and is now regarded as one of the most likely finalists. The sturdy little Chicagoan is an exceptionally good match play contender and appears certain to defeat John Lehman in the quarter final and advance to a semi-final match with Moe, providing the Oregon youth defeats Carey Bahew tomorrow.

In the lower bracket Sweet and

Bridge Company Gets Extension

OAKLAND, July 10.—An extension of time on a franchise to construct a bridge from Point Fleming, Albany, to Black Point Marin county was granted today to T. A. Tomasini.

Frederick Olds, attorney for Tomasini, told the board of supervisors that plans for the structure are still under examination by engineers of the war department. Several changes in the plans have been made to meet objections of shipping firms, he declared, and it is expected that approval of the department will be secured.

Drifting Speed Boat Discovered

The speed boat, Photo, a 30 foot craft, owned by F. W. Hanchett, president of the Pacific Auto Stages, Inc., was picked up by the lighthouse keeper at Two Brothers island yesterday. The boat, waterlogged and adrift, broke from her moorings off McNear's Point Sunday. A Crowley launch towed the craft to Pier 14.

AMERICAN BOAT WINS ENGLISH CLASSIC

By United Press

Built by Harry A. Miller, famous western maker of winning racing cars, owned by Jim Talbot, Jr., western sportsman, and piloted by Ralph Snoddy, famous all over the Pacific Coast, Miss Rioco III showed her fleet "heels" to the fastest speed boats of England and France recently on the Thames river at Southampton.

The occasion was the classic International regatta, the cup was the Duke of York trophy.

Just to make the victory for western America complete in the colorful event, cable dispatches carried the news here today that Miss Rioco III was powered by Richfield gasoline and lubricated with Richfield motor oil.

In winning the race, Pilot Snoddy not only steered the sole American entry to victory but to a one-two-three victory, copping all three heats of the three-day event. One lap, it is reported, was made in the exceptionally fast time average of 48 miles per hour declared unusually fast for Thames waters.

The boat was entered by young Talbot as from the California Yacht club.

Miss Rioco III is described as 17 feet, 6 inches in length and is powered with a super-charged engine of 8 cylinders of 91 cubic inch displacement which develops 225 horsepower. It has made speed of 59 miles per hour under good water conditions.

FLIERS PASS 200 HOUR MARK

2:30:29 p. m. When they passed the 200 mark Mendell and Reinhart had been in the air 26 hours longer than the Cleveland police was in the air.

The pair became the new endurance champions of the world at 2:30:29 p. m. Tuesday when they exceeded by an hour the mark of Byron Newcomb and Roy Mitchell at Cleveland.

Mendell and Reinhart put in a lazy day in the air. They returned early today and after taking on their supplies cruised slowly in wide circles in the vicinity of their base.

A. E. McManus, who with William G. McAdoo, Jr., backed the fliers in their endurance flight, said he was convinced Mendell and Reinhart will add many hours to the Cleveland record, which was bettered by 26 hours when the Angeleno passed the 200 hour mark.

May Land Tuesday

When Mendell and Reinhart dropped a note asking for 100 gallons of gasoline and five gallons of oil late today, they added a postscript as follows:

"If the crowd down there is waiting for us to land it might as well go home and come back next Tuesday. We'll be glad to see everybody, but no for 100 hours more at the very least."

The aviators reported that one of the doors of the plane had blown off and asked that another be sent up to them.

Refueler Repaired

The Curtiss "Carrier Pigeon," refueling plane of the flight today had a new engine and was working perfectly, Paul Whittier, pilot, and Slade Hulbert, hose man, reported.

Mechanics installed the new motor last night after an aged Liberty motor gave up the fight of chasing the sturdy Angeleno through the skies.

The installation was completed in fast time by the ground force and the "Carrier Pigeon" was ready to take to the air for today's early refueling. Another supply plane was on hand in case of emergency but was not needed.

Prizes Arranged

William G. McAdoo today took steps to see that the fliers' feat did not go unrewarded when he subscribed $250 to start a fund for them.

McAdoo was followed by the Wright Aero corporation with $1000. Other donations were Culver City board of trustees, $1000; Mesmer City, $500 and Culver City airport $200. It was believed that the fund will increase as the aviators pile up additional hours.

As preparations were being made for the late afternoon refueling Mendell dropped a note saying the Angeleno was "very short of gas." He urged that a new supply be sent up at once.

The note hit the ground at 4:40 p. m. and eight minutes later the supply ship took off and made the contact. The Angeleno was given 100 gallons of gasoline and five gallons of oil.

Flight Broadcast

A special broadcasting station was installed at the field by the Metro Goldwyn Mayer studio and the crowd was informed of all details of the flight as word was received from Mendell and Reinhart.

At intervals the crowd was urged to refrain from damaging the Angeleno when it finally lands. The announcer stressed the fact that it was planned to take the plane to the international aviation show at Cleveland next month.

A special police guard is maintained at the airport and a movable fence was built to throw around the Angeleno as soon as its wheels touch the ground.

LINDBERGH TO TAKE LONG REST

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(U.P.)—Three new commercial airplane schedules were functioning tonight after being inaugurated by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh during the present week and he has decided to take several days of rest. It was learned from friends of the famous pilot here tonight.

The transatlantic aviator plans to stay three or four days at the mansion of Thomas B. Eastland, official of the Transcontinental Air Transport, in Burlingame, a suburb of San Francisco, unless important business arises.

Col. Lindbergh brought the first plane of a "three-trips-a-day" schedule by the Madrugada line to Alameda airport on San Francisco bay from Los Angeles today. The trip required three hours and 10 minutes. Two round trips between Los Angeles and San Francisco by the coast route, and one by an inland route will be operated regularly by the Maddux line hereafter.

Immediately after landing at Alameda airport Lindbergh and his bride left for the Eastland home.

In the past two weeks Lindbergh has been busy every day, first making an inspection of the T. A. T. route from New York to Los Angeles, then flying the first plane of the new company from Los Angeles to Winslow, and on Tuesday piloting the inaugural westbound ship of the same line into Los Angeles.

He told interviewers that he and his wife had not determined yet where their permanent residence would be located, saying they would probably be living "here and there" for some time yet.

Consumption Of Water Reduced During June

The unprecedented heat wave during the latter part of June resulted in record consumption of water during part of the period, but the month as a whole was below June of last year in total consumption, it was announced in a report made by Frank W. Hanna, chief engineer and general manager of the East Bay Municipal Utility district.

While the second half of June was probably hotter than any similar period in recent years, the first half of the month was also made up of unusual weather with a rainfall of 1.70 inches at San Pablo reservoir. This caused small consumption of water during the first two weeks, but the latter half of the month, which was made up of almost continuous heat wave brought about record consumption.

On June 26, the people of the Utility district used 51,250,000 gallons of water, the largest amount ever used. On June 22, the consumption was 49,980,000 and on June 23 49,340,000 gallons. Consumption ranged above 45,000,000 gallons practically every day from June 21 to June 30.

The total amount of water consumed in June of this year was 1,191,170,000 gallons. In June of last year the district used 1,271,960,000 gallons.

County To Sell Richmond Lots For Unpaid Taxes

A public auction of 308 lots in the Canal Subdivision of Richmond will be held Monday by County Tax Collector Martin Joost. The sale is for the payment of delinquent taxes. A minimum price of $10 a lot has been set.

D. W. Ingram of an Francisco representing bond holders, appeared before the Richmond city council sitting as a board of equalization yesterday and urged that his clients be permitted to pay city taxes on the same property without penalties. The council reached no decision. Ingram was interested in the 308 lots and 203 others he indicated.

CARS COLLIDE

According to police reports, automobiles driven by Charles Colla, 1022 Forty-fifth street and A. P. Stafford, 2324 Clifton avenue collided at the intersection of Pullman avenue and Cutting Boulevard last night. No one was injured and slight damage was done.

MANY LINKED TO DOPE PLOT

required to dispose of any action against his wife.

Every phase of the investigation was cloaked in secrecy but American and Chinese officials continued to work together harmoniously.

As time passed without an official arrest unconfirmed rumors that United States authorities would be satisfied with confiscation of the opium in Mrs. Yang's trunks and possibly with her deportation gained wider circulation.

Deportation Asked

Deportation of Mrs. Ying was demanded by Kuo Min Tang, semi official agency of the Chinese government in America, "so that she may be tried in her own country."

Hatfield's announcement was made during an appeal by Mrs. Ying's attorney for a restraining order to prevent translation of the letters found in her baggage.

"As a matter of fact the documents referred to have already been translated and their text indicates that other persons, in Honolulu and China, are involved," Hatfield said. The form of the restraining order was drawn incorrectly and the case was postponed until Thursday.

SUSPENSION NOTICE RECEIVED HERE

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(U.P.)—The Chinese minister here, Dr. C. C. Wu, announced tonight that Ying Kao, vice consul at San Francisco, has been suspended pending disposition of charges that his wife attempted to smuggle a large quantity of opium and lace into this country.

Although Kao has been in the United States five years and did not accompany Mrs. Kao on the voyage from China which resulted in seizure of her luggage at San Francisco last Friday, it was said at the legation that his suspension pending further investigation of the case was deemed advisable.

Resolution Received

The Chinese minister received tonight a copy of the resolution passed by the executive committee of the Kuo Min Tang, a semi-official organization of the Chinese government, at San Francisco, demanding that Mrs. Ying be prosecuted under Chinese laws that provide the death penalty for narcotic smuggling.

The minister also received numerous communications from Chinese student groups throughout the United States urging that both the vice consul and his wife be punished severely for bringing discredit on their native country.

Peculiar Situation

An inquiry here disclosed that a peculiar legal situation saves Mrs. Ying Kao from the threat of the death penalty.

There is no extradition treaty with China, so the only prosecution lies with Justice department officials who may proceed under the anti-smuggling laws of the United States or the Harrison act, which provides long prison sentences for mere possession of opium not stamped by revenue officials.

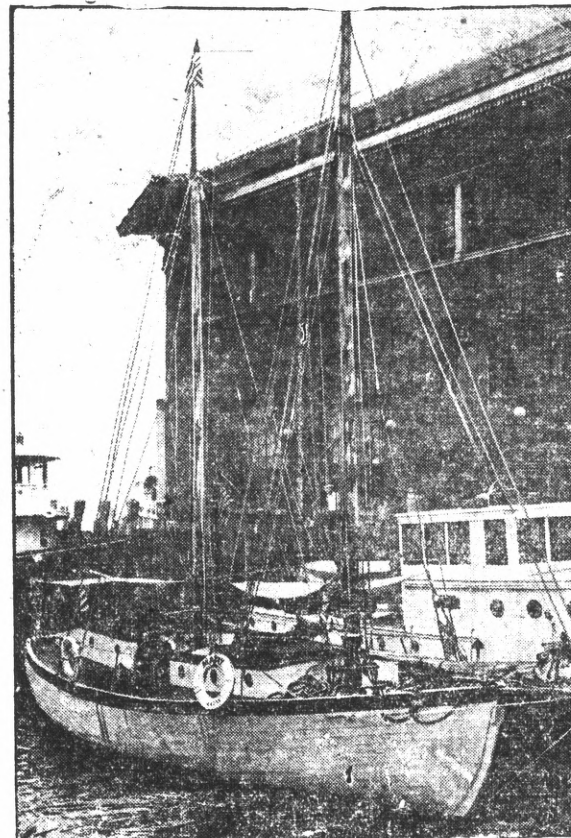

Customs officials have turned their evidence over to Justice department officials for prosecution if it is deemed best, and a report is expected soon at the state department.

beach, stepped from their little green cabin to be caught in a surging mass of cheering spectators who gave them the first taste of a great reception.

Williams, followed closely by Yancey, was within a step of the official reception committee when the crowd caught them up, trying to "unsecrete" the aviators. Balbo and his associates along the crowd swarmed towards the two fliers, fairly hurling Balbo into Yancey's arms.

Francisco de Pinedo, famous Italian flyer, and Alexander C. Kirke, of the American embassy, also were in the milling group which Premier Benito Mussolini had left only five minutes before.

Laughing and shaking hands with the two fliers, Balbo said in English: "I offer you the heartiest congratulations, Mr. Yancey and Mr. Williams, in the name of the King, of Premier Mussolini and the Italian government."

Feeling Fine

The Americans thanked him as the crowd swept them up again. "Our flight as a whole was satisfactory," said Yancey.

"We struck strong headwinds en route here from Sanlander and were able to average only about 40 miles an hour which prevented us from arriving on schedule, but we are feeling fine and certainly would have reached Rome without a stop if we had not discarded 50 gallons of gasoline before leaving Old Orchard."

The fliers said they may fly around over Europe but will not attempt a return flight over the Atlantic before next year at least.

Fliers Fed

The officials and crowd took the aviators towards the airport hotel where they were given drinks and food. As they moved away De Pinedo greeted Yancey but the American did not recognize him. When he was told who had shaken hands with him Yancey tried to push his way back

LACK OF WORK HELD CAUSE OF DEATH

Tuesday night and went to bed. Her husband slept in another room. She slept late yesterday morning.

When she arose, she found her husband was missing from his room. She smelled gas and found the laundry room locked.

She rushed to the home of Mrs. L. E. Bleuel, 1217 Lincoln avenue, who lives next door, and phoned for the police. E. H. Hawley, another neighbor and Mrs. Bleuel shut off the gas at the meter. The police arrived shortly and broke down the door.

The inhalator squad of the Richmond fire department was called and went to work over Winkler, under the direction of Dr. L. St. John Hely. After more than two hours, Dr. Hely pronounced the man dead.

The members of the inhalator crew included Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, W. V. Remell, W. A. Grady, Stanley Pressler and Leo Schreuder.

Mrs. Winkler declared that her husband had been ill and out of work for two years and that once before he attempted suicide in the same manner.

Winkler had resided in this city many years. Besides his widow he leaves two children, Lloyd, aged 10, and Anita, aged 8. He was the step-father of Miss Eunice Winkler, of Richmond, a motion picture actress.

GATES RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Gates and children Marilyn and Frederick of Key Boulevard have returned after an enjoyable two weeks spent at Dillon's beach.

with the bottle of whiskey which had been placed at his side, Yancey said:

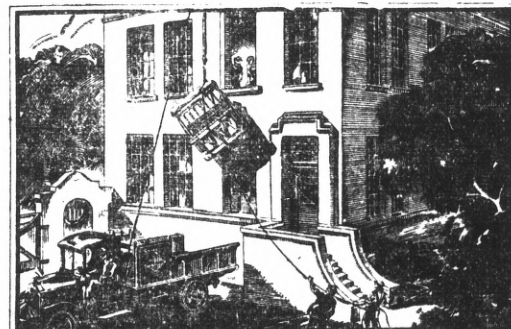

"No, not yet."

De Pinedo then offered Yancey a cigarette which the flier lit and smoked.

About that time the crowd surged up around the fliers again and Yancey was lifted shoulder high. He seemed to take on renewed energy as the tumult rose and took off his cap, waving at the crowd.

"We crashed the green flash (their former plane) but we got there!" Yancey shouted.

Thousands of improvements in central office equipment in 5 years

In the last five years there have been hundreds of improvements of major importance in telephone central office equipment in the Bell System, and lesser improvements by the thousands.

There is no standing still in the Bell System. Better and better telephone service at the lowest cost is the goal. Present improvements constantly going into effect are but the foundation for the greater service of the future.
